John David Lind is a corporate attorney focused on representing lower-middle market, closely-held companies and national private equity firms in buy-side and sell-side M&A transactions in various industries. In the last four years, he has worked on over sixty M&A transactions, with aggregate consideration of over $1.6 billion. A majority of those deals were strategic add-on transactions for private equity owned portfolio companies throughout the United States. In addition, John David advises on other general deal and non-deal related corporate matters, entity formation and governance, corporate reorganizations, and other general business matters.

A native of Tuscaloosa, John David is a four-time graduate of The University of Alabama. Prior to joining Miller & Martin, he worked on similar matters at a large regional-based firm and an international firm.
