Some HR professionals are involved in so many workplace investigations that they get into a pattern of doing the same thing regarding each one. Is there anything new you should be thinking about in this area? Others do them so rarely that they have not developed a good routine or checklist for them. So, whichever end of this spectrum you are on – or if you are somewhere in-between – this session will address both the common and the not-so-common issues HR professionals can face when conducting workplace investigations and some creative and practical ways to resolve them.
