

Attorney Tom Harrold Quoted in Atlanta Journal-Constitution Article On Georgia's Role in Electric Vehicle Industry

Posted in News on April 30, 2021

Tom Harrold, an economic development lawyer in Miller & Martin's Atlanta office, was interviewed for the article "Georgia Poised to Seize Big Role in Electric Vehicle Industry" published on April 24, 2021 by The Atlanta Journal-Constitution. The article highlights the many reasons why Georgia is well-positioned to be a major hub for the growing electric vehicle industry which has already started to put roots down in the state.

Harrold suggested Georgia's convenient location near major automakers makes the state a top choice for site selection by electric vehicle suppliers. He also referenced Georgia's generous economic incentive packages rich with grants, tax breaks and land incentives that makes the state a key player in recruiting wars.