Miller & Martin's Entertainment, Sports & Media law practice comprises a multidisciplinary, full-service team of attorneys serving individuals and companies across many sectors of this unique industry. Our attorneys have experience representing musicians, songwriters, producers, writers, directors, actors, athletes, performing artists, record labels, motion picture studios, sports franchises, television and film networks, media production and distribution entities, talent agencies, business management professionals and companies, and content creators.

Our team not only handles contract and transaction negotiations but also offers risk management consulting and represents clients in litigation and alternative dispute resolution proceedings. Our attorneys are skilled in providing copyright, patent and trademark registration services and have prosecuted and defended complex intellectual property infringement actions.

Our attorneys are actively involved and have served in leadership roles with organizations including Women in Technology (WIT), Black Entertainment and Sports Law Association (BESLA) and the State Bar of Georgia's Entertainment & Sports Law Section.
